

Font EnigmaAstrology

Introduction

I developed the font EnigmaAstrology in December 2018. It is created to be used in my software package Enigma but you can also use it in other applications, as a word processor or presentation software.

The font consists of 133 symbols for signs, planets and other celestial points, aspects, ascendant, MC and retrogradation. In some cases, more symbols are available. Choose one of your likings.

I put the font in the public domain. You can use it for free and as you see fit.

Jan Kampherbeek, December 27, 2018.

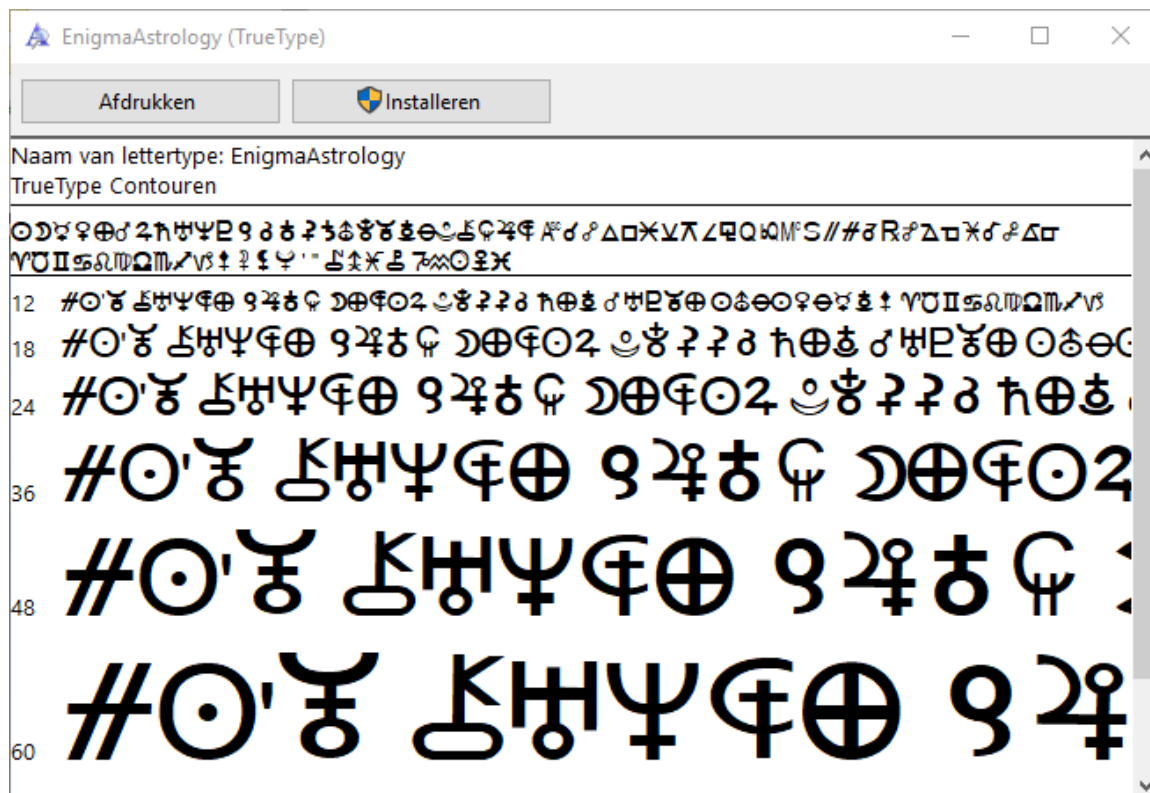

Installation

If you did not yet download the font and the manual, you can do so via

<http://radixpro.nl/downloads/font/>

In the download, you will find the file EnigmaAstrology_en.pdf (this manual) and a file EnigmaAstrology.ttf. This is the font. You will need to install it to be able to use it.

Double-click on the file and you will see a screen as shown (but probably in English).

Click the button Install, this button will become gray in a few seconds indicating that the font has been installed.

If you installed this font previously, you will be noticed. If so, indicate you want to replace the font.

Usage

Each astrological symbol maps to a specific character. Hereafter you will find an overview of characters and symbols. For instance the character for the planet Venus is 'd'. Please take the difference between lowercase and uppercase into account and also that accented characters are being used.

If you want to use the symbol of Venus you can type:

the planet d is known as the morning star and as the evening star.

Mark the character 'd' , select the font EnigmaAstrology, and the result is:

the planet ♀ is known as the morning star and as the evening star.

Selection of the font might not be straightforward: often the name of the font is shown in its own characters. If you type the name of the font: 'EnigmaAstrology' (no spaces) you will see several symbols. Select this font and the marked text will be shown in the astrological glyphs.

Overview of symbols

In this overview, I enlarged the symbols somewhat (18 points instead of 12).
